SPORT & INTEGRITY

2

Sport integrity rejects competition manipulation, discrimination, cheating, violence, abuse, corruption and any other crime or fraud.

1)_

Sport integrity is a precondition to maximising the contribution of sport to sustainable development and human rights at a personal, organisational and competition level.

10

Ensuring an adequate anti-doping policy framework, its implementation and effective compliance measures.

9

Strengthening measures against the manipulation of sports competitions.

3

Sport integrity promotes transparency and accountability in the governance of sport, fostering respect for internationally recognised human rights.

8

Fostering good governance of sport organisations.

4

Integrity and good governance in sport lags behind other sectors, negatively impacting the sector and its stakeholders, while overshadowing the potential of sport as a catalyst for positive change.

5

The 2017 'International Conference of Sport Ministers and Senior Officials' prioritised sport integrity as a key policy area. Council of Europe led the follow up with 5 policy areas.

6

Preserving the rights, safety and security of athletes, spectators, workers and other relevant groups.

7

Preventing and addressing harassment and abuse in sport.
